BRITISH OFFENSIVE CONTINUES TO BE FIERCELY WAGED DE-SPITE VIGOROUS COUN-TER ATTACKS.

DRIVE AHEAD OF TIME

Word Reaching Secretary Balfour at Washington State British Are Two Weeks Ahead of Their Schedule.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
London, May 4.—Throughout the night the guns continued to boom without intermission on the Arras battlefield. Frequent outbursts of machine guns and rifle fire told of attacks and counter attacks along various parts of the front of the British offensive. Reuters' correspondent at British headquarters telegraphed today that apparently there has been little change since the official communication of last evening was issued. The British made small but important progress at several points.

On the south bank of the "carpe the British pushed forward, overcoming resistance of machine gun posts which about all along this ground. They have established themselves in the sunken road near Pelvis mill, which has a dip of nine feet and offers possibilities for offense and defense. At Roux, which is directly opposite this new position, the Germans still remain in possession of the fiercely contested chemical works.

Countless Attacks Checked.
Headquarters of the British in France, via London, May 4.—The Germans made desperate counter attacks throughout the entire night against positions won by the British yesterday, but were everywhere repulsed.

All through the brilliant moonlight night and again today British soldiers were fighting on a wide front, tenaciously holding the positions won yesterday in the face of the heaviest counter attacks of their foe. In some places the fighting ebbed and flowed as in the old days of the British campaign, when the casualties inflicted on the enemy were regarded as more important than specific gains of ground. The present fighting, however, is more intense.

Hindenburg Line Pierced.
The latest reports from the battlefield show the Hindenburg line was pierced both north and south of Bullecourt for long distances. The Germans bitterly defended these points and attempted several times to retake them, but on the British side the deep trenches, they held on. The men fought so steadily that there was neither time nor thought of food. The battlefields were dry and dusty, however, and water bottles had to be replenished time and again whenever it was possible to do so.

Today the sun is shining again with genial spring weather, but the British are not taking advantage of it. They are still fighting on the same ground, and the grim business of war goes on with an ever increasing toll of dead and dying.

Capture Malakoff Farm.
London, May 4.—The British last night made progress in the west of the Arras front, capturing Malakoff farm, the war office announced. On the Arras front the British have maintained their hold on Tuesday and all the positions captured in that neighborhood in yesterday's drive.

The British were compelled to fall back from the advanced position of the Arras front, and the British forces of the western front are two weeks ahead of their attack schedule, according to a cablegram received here today by Secretary Balfour.

The losses were said to be only one-half as large proportionately as those of the Somme campaign of last year. This is attributed by members of the mission to an incomparably better artillery preparation and the fact that the men are not allowed to outrun the guns.

Summary of War News

The British have burst through the Oppy line and are fighting the bloodiest and fiercest battle of the present offensive in a great effort to smash the famous Wotan line before its organization is completed.

The Hindenburg line, outflanked and pierced in several places, has failed to stop the forward surge of the British armies, and the Wotan positions are the last great barriers barring the road to Douai, Cambrai and Germany's richest prize in France, the great coal and iron fields north of Lens.

The Wotan line runs from Drocourt to Quenast, a stretch of fifteen miles, running north and south about five miles west of Douai and Cambrai. Around Quenast, the southern extremity of the line, General Haig has formed a great human nipper and is striving with all the power at his command to close the jaws of these nippers. Realizing the menace of the situation, the Germans are fighting with a grim determination which risks one no cost in blood too high if it halts their advancing foe.

The renewed fury into which the great battle of Arras has flamed has diverted attention from the possibly more significant events which are shaping behind the battle front.

The German censorship has lifted its ban to allow newspapers and media from Germany once more to reach the outer world, but there is little information as yet as to what has transpired within the borders of the German empire during the last week. The German chancellor is once more reported to be about to make a pronouncement on "peace before the Reichstag," and his speech is expected to be forced by the Junkers. This reactionary party, enraged and alarmed by the apparent dominance of the socialist party, with its program of peace "without indemnities," has presented a petition to the chancellor demanding that he clarify his position. The Junkers are still clamoring for the annexation of Belgium and all reports indicate that the government must very shortly take a definite stand both on the question of war aims and internal reform.

International Secretary Who Was at Border Last Summer to Address
Meeting Sunday Night.

Methods employed by the Y. M. C. A. in the great mobilization points in providing for the recreation and comfort of the soldiers, will be explained in an illustrated lecture to be given by the international secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at a union meeting of five Janesville churches to be held in the Baptist church at half past seven Sunday evening.

Mr. Northcott, the speaker, is international secretary for railroad work in the middle west. He will be in this city on Sunday to confer with the staff of the local association concerning the plan and equipment of the "Y" for army and navy work, and also to consider the possibilities of work among the railroad men of the city.

Mr. Northcott spent some time on the border last summer assisting in the "Y" work there, and comes prepared to give much first hand information on the work of the "Y" in the trenches.

His talk will be illustrated by stereoscopic pictures of the "Y" buildings on the border, and of the advantages offered the men by the association. He will explain the work done in the prison and mobilization camps, and outline the plans for even broader work now under consideration by the American association.

The entire staff of the local "Y" has volunteered for either state work or service in camp after the mobilization of troops. Such a course will be followed, it is believed, by most of the association men throughout the country as a part of the "Y" program.

Mrs. Northcott, a soprano, will considerable note, will sing at the service. The Congregational, Presbyterian, United Brethren, Methodist and Baptist churches have united for this meeting, and a large attendance is expected. Mr. Northcott is an able speaker and has a subject of great popular interest at this time.

Petrograd, May 4.—Detachments of soldiers have gathered in front of the palace which was used as the headquarters of the provisional government, carrying red flags with inscriptions demanding the resignation of Foreign Minister Milukoff.

The resignation of M. Milukoff was demanded by thousands of soldiers and workmen marching in the streets last evening bearing banners inscribed "Down with Milukoff." Discontent has been smoldering for some time on account of the belief the minister was not fully in sympathy with the viewpoint of the workmen and soldiers.

The present outbreak, which began yesterday, was a direct result of the announcement made by the foreign office to allied nations to the effect that Russia would not slacken her effort in the struggle against the central powers. The workmen and soldiers declare they should have been consulted before this communication was sent. All yesterday forenoon crowds gathered in groups in the public squares listening to exhortations of impromptu orators.

DEFENSE COUNCIL'S AFFAIRS.

BIG DEMAND FOR SEEDS

Canvass of Farmers' Needs By Precinct Committee Members Indicates Big Increase in County's Food Production

Supervision of all matters relative to the work of the Rock county council of defense will be in charge of an executive committee of ten members, five of whom are the officers and the other five appointed by the officers. At a meeting of the officers this morning at the court house the following members were elected to the executive board: John M. Whitehead, Janesville; John A. Paul, Milton; George W. Hull, Johnston; R. K. Overton, La Prairie; and Frank Hafeman, Spring Valley. The executive committee will meet at any time when there is need for action and its members at all times are subject to the call of the secretary.

With the organization of the defense committee, an effort to determine the probable food production of Rock county farms and gardens during the coming summer. Precinct committee members were instructed to canvass the agricultural needs and prospects of their respective communities. The canvass was completed yesterday. The secretaries, Howard V. Lee and Frank P. Starr, with telephone calls and letters asking information in regard to their work and sending in orders for seed potatoes, corn and beans. While a cursory survey of the situation seems to indicate that the county's food production will be increased, the fact that there will be no slackening of the defense committee's efforts to see that every available acre in city as well as county is turned to the production of some useful food crop.

The executive board is concentrating for the present on the matter of seed potatoes. Two carloads have already been ordered from the state defense council at Madison, and if the reports to the precinct committee members indicate a sufficient demand, another carload will be ordered.

After the seed corn problem has been tackled, the precinct defense members are already giving this matter attention and are learning just what the county's seed supply amounts to. Rural school children and agricultural students in the high schools of the county are engaged in testing the seed corn and it will be given to the county shortly.

Members of the defense board are urging that farmers advise farmers to plant beans for garden and field use. The land in the county which is light enough for this crop and should yield good returns owing to the high prices which beans are now commanding. It is pointed out that beans are especially valuable for feeding the army and can be kept or transported without loss. The number of farmers who have already decided to attempt a crop of beans, in case they are undecided about their seed, they should report to the precinct defense board and it will try to get them to that their needs are supplied.

City defense council members are busy listing all vacant lots and vacant land in the city. TO "CALL" AUTOISTS FOR LAW VIOLATIONS

No Splitting License Tags for Two Machines or Private Cars on Dealers'
Tags to Be Tolerated.

Janesville people fortunate enough to own two automobiles, but so stingy that they will not split their license tags and hang one on either car to evade the state tax, are going to be dealt with by the chief of police. D. Chapman announced today. At the department to several instances of this nature has been made, and the guilty parties have been warned to procure licenses for their second car.

In one case the license number on a roadster was investigated by the officers, and according to the license number furnished by the state the number was issued for a five-ton truck.

In various other ways there are several local owners who are violating the state law and the police are themselves liable to prosecution under specified code.

Last year it was found that one man was operating a family car and two delivery cars for his business, and the same man had the same license number. Most startling of all was that the tags were "stared," those issued to automobiles and the other to trucks. It was late in December when the police reported the matter to District Attorney Stanley C. Dunwiddie, and before the time for the termination of the 1916 license period, nothing was done regarding the matter aside from warning the owner that such procedure would not be tolerated this year.

A number of automobiles with only one license plate are to be seen in the city, the tag either hanging on the front of the rear. The police say such a practice will have to be labeled with tags on both front and rear in compliance with state law. In case one tag has been lost, it behooves the owner to secure another.

Leo Spohn, who was operated on at Mercy hospital last Friday, is reported much improved.

Administration Asks Congress for Power To Regulate Prices

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., May 4.—Absolute authority to regulate in its discretion of production, distribution and prices of food and other necessities during the war was asked of congress on Thursday by the administration.

In a sweeping bill introduced with administration approval by Chairman Lever of the house agriculture committee it is proposed to empower the president under the war clause of the constitution to take these measures whenever, in his opinion, the national emergency shall require.

1. To fix maximum and minimum prices for food, clothing, fuel and other necessities and the articles required for their production.

2. To prescribe regulations to govern production of these commodities and if necessary to requisition the producing factories, mines or other establishments.

3. To compel holders of necessities to release them in amounts insuring equitable distribution.

4. To regulate exchanges in such a way as to eliminate marked manipulation.

5. To compel railroads to give preference to the movements of necessities.

6. To levy such importation duties as he feels necessary to prevent excessive "dumping" of foreign products.

220 TO 167 IN A VOTE

THIRTEEN COUNTIES ARE NOW ORGANIZED FOR DEFENSE WORK

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 4.—Proof of Wisconsin's patriotism is shown by the alacrity with which the citizens are responding to the recently issued appeal of the state council of defense for organization of county councils.

Thirteen counties have already responded to the call with complete organizations, most of which are already organizing the necessary field work outlined in a bulletin issued by the state body. As many more counties have announced dates upon which councils will be organized.

The big task of the councils is not only to organize the resources of the county for production, but to lay the foundation for service in every branch which the nation's emergency may require.

Wherever mass meetings have been called to outline plans for organization, tremendous enthusiasm has been shown.

Assemblyman C. A. Carter of Vernon county, and W. A. Duffy of Bayfield county, represented the state council at meetings in Washington county. "Practically everyone in the county is behind the newly formed council," said Mr. Carter, "and the enthusiasm that was displayed at the meetings was immense. The people there are behind the proposition body and soul."

Dodge county was organized with a monster mass meeting at Jensen, addressed by J. R. Wheeler of the state council of defense, and Dr. George D. Whiteside of Plover, member of the assembly.

Lancaster county is determined to be eclipsed by no county in the production of food stuffs this year and the council which was organized at Antigo, has imported potatoes, wheat, and seed corn and other seeds by the carload to be distributed among the farmers at actual cost. This example will be followed by other counties.

Four hundred people in Winnebago county have started gardens, and the county council, through George A. Buckstaff and J. C. Thompson, have started a survey of the county's agricultural resources. This will include the supply of potatoes and seeds, implements, etc.

Pierce, Racine, Crawford, Richland, Walworth, Iowa, Waushara, Portage,

Marquette, Jefferson are in the process of organization and will be working before the end of next week. The state council is flooded with requests for speakers which are sent to address preliminary organization meetings.

DELAVAN

Delavan, May 2.—Miss Mabel Stapleton, who has made her home with her aunt, the late Mrs. D. D. Church, will go to Milwaukee this evening to remain with friends. The home will be closed and later offered for sale.

Miss Grace Pemberton, who has been employed as bookkeeper and stenographer at the Delavan Republican office for the past four years, has resigned her position after this week and will go to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Pemberton, north of this city, for the summer. Miss Pemberton has been a valuable asset to the Republican force, always maintaining an obliging and engaging manner to all outside of the office, with whom she had to deal, as well as those with whom she came in contact in her work. She will be missed in her position.

Rev. T. W. North has gone to Portage, Wis., for a week or more, and Mr. R. Tompkins will occupy the M. E. pulpit in Delavan next Sunday morning and evening. Mr. Humbrook will speak in Darien Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

Mrs. Max Bassler returned Tuesday from Chicago where she spent a week with friends.

Several changes have been made this past week at the office of the Bell Telephone company. Mr. Gilmer of Milwaukee has been here installing a new lighting system, and A. L. Hart, manager of traffic, was here yesterday. Anderson, Mrs. C. B. Henderson, Miss Catherine Williams, E. C. Larson and J. C. Eckert. The variety of the articles was a wonder to all who saw them, not to mention the mechanical skill demonstrated. EVERY India Paper SET of the new Encyclopaedia Britannica

in the entire world
that is still unsold
in America

This great work, written and edited by the scholars of the world, is the accepted international authority on all branches of knowledge. Consequently, it has a large sale in every civilized country.

But of all the sets printed on the famous India paper, the only ones in the world still available are the few thousand now being sold in this country. And these will soon be all gone—a few weeks at the outside will see the very last set sold.

Thousands of sets were sold in Great Britain. Today it is not possible to buy the Britannica in that country except at secondhand and at whatever premium is put upon it.

Every set offered in Australia is gone.

South Africa is "sold out."

India is "sold out."

Japan, where more sets of the Britannica were sold than of any reference work in any language, is "sold out."

Argentina, which led all Latin-America in sales of the Britannica, is "sold out."

In Canada, the only sets that can be purchased must be sent from the United States.

You have the opportunity NOW to acquire one of these last sets of the Britannica printed on genuine India paper. But only for a few weeks longer at most—because the remaining sets are selling fast. Orders are coming in from all parts of the United States and Canada at an increasing rate from day to day.

If you let this chance pass, you will never have another to buy this world-famous work printed on the beautiful India paper.

It is NOW or never if you want a set.

More than 175,000 sets have already been sold in America—only a small fraction of the entire stock remains. You cannot delay and expect to get a set. Therefore we urge you to act immediately.

No one should buy the Britannica unless he is convinced that it would be useful to him. And in your case YOU are the one to decide how much this Library of Knowledge would help you in your business or work,

You can see sets and leave orders at:

Jas. Sutherland & Sons
12 S. Main St., Janesville, Wis.

just as it is helping tens of thousands of others.

This great work leads to the highway of Success—it not only gives you practical information on any subject, but it increases your efficiency, broadens your point of view and employs the scope of your activities. It has a dollars-value because the knowledge it gives you increases your earning power.

You need the Britannica for a hundred and more reasons. You certainly owe it to yourself to find out all about it before you order it. And if you then decide that you want it printed on beautiful India paper, NOW is the time to buy it—at the specially attractive price at which these very last sets in the world printed on India paper are offered.

You are not asked to pay cash for it—only to get your order in at once with a first payment of one dollar. You can pay for it in a limited number of convenient monthly amounts of as low as $3 for the cloth binding. And you have the use of the books (29 volumes) while paying for them—they will be shipped as soon as your order is received.

But you must act promptly. Every day's delay lessens your chance to own one of these very last sets of the Britannica printed on genuine India paper. You must buy it NOW—or Never!

Those who cannot go to the store may use this Reserve Order form, which will be legally binding upon us to reserve one set for you, just the same as if you ordered it in person.

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO., Chicago, Ill.

Please reserve me a set of the "Handy Volume" Encyclopaedia Britannica, printed on genuine India paper. I enclose $1.00 as first payment. Send me an order form which I agree to sign and return immediately.

REGULATE THE USE OF GONDOLA CARS

down cars a day on both roads, we can now obtain but a small portion of that number. It will be a few days before we can know just how greatly our shopping will be affected.

According to Alvin Hennings, agent for the Chicago & Northwestern road, though there have been many rumors of a restriction of the use of gondola cars, no orders have been received by him to date. It is likely, however, that further regulations will be made throughout the state, as all the roads at Milwaukee are under the new rule.

The order is known as Emergency No. 1, and provides that every motor car when empty must be returned to the interest of its owner, and to the home road. It will prevent cars from being sent all over the district before being returned to the mines for a new load. It is even demanded that cars sent back to the mines empty if necessary.

MINIMUM WAGE BILL KILLED IN ASSEMBLY

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Madison, May 4.—The Bradley bill providing for a minimum wage for females and minors, applicable to cities of first and second class, was killed, 31 to 34, in the assembly today with the aid of the socialists. The measure provided seventy-five cents per day for minors under eighteen years of age, $1.00 per day for learners and apprentices eighteen years of age and older; and other female workers, not including domestic service, not less than $1.25 per day.

A bill for the inspection of interstate shipments of seeds was introduced. The committee on state affairs recommended a concurrent resolution on the veto bill appropriating $50,000 for state armories. The bill for farmer and laborer representation on the boards of university and normal schools, passed without debate.

The senate after a heated debate in which the word "treason" figured prominently passed the assembly bill providing the election machinery of the state be used for draft registration, the vote being twenty-one to two. Senators Arnold and Zumbach, socialists, voting in the negatives. No reconsideration was offered.

The senate then passed a measure, thus killing the bill for the session. The senate killed the bill to provide that no divorce action shall be begun where both parties are within jurisdiction of the state, without the consent of the divorce council.

The measure allowing loaning of money to be repaid to the state in connection with clearing land in northern Wisconsin was passed; also the bill fixing a heavy penalty for passing fraudulent checks on hotel keepers.

Assembly killed 49 to 1 the bill empowering the state superintendent to supervise educational work in charitable and penal institutions of the state.

The assembly amended and passed the Bray bill giving counties and cities permission to appropriate money to aid in defense council work.

OF WAR TIME BABES
THE MOST ARE BOYS

London, May 4.—The theory that more boy babies than girls are born in war time is supported by the annual report of the registrar general for England and Wales. During the first quarter of the war the proportion rose to 1,000 boys to 1,000 girls, and in the second quarter it rose to 1,000 boys to 990 girls. In the third quarter of 1916 it rose to 1,000 boys to 980 girls. All these figures, says the report, are considerably above any recorded during the preceding fifty years, and are within measurable distance of the general European ratio, which for many years has been considerably in excess of the British.

The marriage rate was the highest on record; the birth rate was the lowest on record; the death rate from typhoid fever was the lowest on record; that from influenza the highest since 1900, and that from measles the highest since 1890. The average ages of both men and women marrying were the highest on record; that of men was 27.3 years, women 25.7 years. The mortality rate was the lowest on record.

A rise in mortality among the aged of both sexes is noted. It is a feature of the statistics of the war, and is regarded as a reflex of the unusual stress and anxiety of the time.

King Richard said: "My kingdom, for a night, to have tried a war, and he could have obtained a dove at that price."

GERMAN U-BOAT WAR
OUTRIVALS ANCIENT
MURDER AND PIRACY

Paris, May 4.—The story of the French schooner "Leontine" is a tale of modern piracy and murder which rivals any of the unauthenticated histories of Captain Kidd. Here is what happened on the high seas during the morning of March 25, 1917:

The schooner "Leontine," carrying 250 tons of mine stakes left France on March 23 at 2 o'clock. Two days later the "Leontine" was stopped by a long range shot from a German submarine. The crew, eight persons in all, prepared to leave the ship as the captain rushed below for the schooner's papers. The submarine approached and lay 300 metres away, her commander and crew watching all that was happening aboard the "Leontine." Instead of allowing the submarine to keep up a steady fire, the little ship with forty rounds of shell fired a single shot which killed four of the crew and wounded the others, three seriously. The "Leontine" was a charnel house so far as the human material aboard could make it. Her captain, slightly wounded, as he attempted to mount the bridge, returned to the deck and courageously carried two of the victims to shelter forward.

The "Leontine" was now riddled like a sieve but did not sink. The Germans then fired incendiary shells which started a fire in the stern. The blaze, however, as if fate had intervened, did not spread. Immediately a boat left the submarine and a party with bombs, seeing that all the crew was either killed or wounded, the boarding party placed their bombs and prepared to leave. On the deck, the first mate and cabin boy, the latter a child of tender years, fearing the explosions, appealed to the enemy. Revolver shots answered their appeals. Aboard the submarine, the crew which crowded its deck and around its gun with laughter and shouts.

Shortly before the first bomb exploded aboard the "Leontine" the submarine turned and steamed away, leaving the little ship with a gaping hole in the vessel's side. The first mate, who survived his double injury, faintly called to the captain that another bomb was about to explode. This bomb was hanging over the side by a cord and the captain cut the cord. The first bomb had done its work. Water was lapping the decks. The little ship wallowed in the waves and a sudden gust of wind threw her strongly to port and she capsized immediately.

The survivors, four in number—captain, first mate, cabin boy and a sailor whom the captain aided to hide himself forward—were thrown into the sea but managed to keep afloat on wreckage which surrounded them. The explosion tore a gaping hole in the vessel's side. The first mate, who survived his double injury, faintly called to the captain that another bomb was about to explode. This bomb was hanging over the side by a cord and the captain cut the cord. The first bomb had done its work. Water was lapping the decks. The little ship wallowed in the waves and a sudden gust of wind threw her strongly to port and she capsized immediately.

Four hours of intense suffering passed before the survivors were sighted and picked up by a passing ship. They are safely ashore today, recovering and able to tell the story of modern heartless piracy.

RICE BRAN RATION IS BAD FOR HOGS

Chicago, Ill., Mar. 4.—That a rice bran ration will cause hogs to dress "soft," thereby lowering their quality and their market value, has been proved by tests conducted at the Texas experimental station.

The conclusion of the Texas experts settles a question of long standing between the farmers of certain southern districts and the packers who have been buying their hogs.

Dr. J. H. DeLoach, expert on agricultural research and education for a Chicago packer, visited Texas recently for the purpose of investigating the rice bran question. Upon consultation with farmers and the authorities at the Texas experimental station, he found that considerable attention had already been given to this work and that the experiment station had just made new discoveries of the causes of soft meat.

"The tests conducted by the Texas experiment station authorities throw light on a subject that previously has been much in the dark. For a long time farmers in certain sections, especially in the peanut growing districts, have sold their hogs under an agreement that the top prices would not be paid for animals that dressed soft. When the hogs did dress soft, the packers suspected they had been fed on peanuts, but nine times out of ten the farmers indignantly denied it. Their vigorous assertions that they had not fed the hogs on feed that was recognized as causing them to dress soft led me, among others, to visit the station. I found that rice bran was being used as a feed and after a serious investigation and much questioning some of the farmers admitted that they believed rice was the cause of the hogs dressing soft."

At this time the Texas experts finished experiments which are conclusive and which satisfy me that rice bran is similar in effect to peanuts. The Texas authorities are soon to issue a bulletin to that effect.

"If the discovery lessens the number of hogs that dress soft, well and good; but even if it does not, the discovery will at least settle a point that has caused much controversy between the buyers and sellers of hogs."

Scene from "Flora Bella" John Cort's Casino Theatre success, which will play at Myers Theatre, Sunday evening, May 6.

News Notes from Movieland

—BY DAISY DEAN

Transatlantic travel being somewhat disturbed, and a story with an Egyptian setting being the basis of Mme. Petrova's film, it became incumbent upon the Russian actress to journey to Florida for the desired settings. The story, the title of which is "The Undying Flame," concerns itself with ancient and modern Egypt and is military in its general tenor. Inasmuch as considerable of the action is described as taking place upon the banks of the Nile, it can be safely predicted that Florida's most obscure and wildest spots will shortly attain immortalization upon the screen as the deathless sands of Egypt. The transplanting of a few palm trees and the enveloping of a large assortment of negroes in long flowing robes will transform certain portions of the Florida coast into perfect Egyptian settings, according to Maurice Tourneur, the director in charge of the picture.

She'll Be a Babe in Arms Yet

Louise Huff is getting younger with every role. In "Seventeen" she was pictured as a girl of approximately that age. In "Great Expectations" she was only fourteen years old. And in her latest effort, "The Lonesome Chap," she is a budding schoolgirl of eleven summers.

"I haven't balked yet," asseverates Louise, "but if they try to insert me in long baby clothes, something's going to happen."

ADD ENLISTMENTS

The Farnums—William and Dustin—will enlist themselves and their fifty-one foot motor boat to be used in guarding Los Angeles harbor. The boat will have two rapid fire guns.

Signed up at the Universal City military recruiting station are such thrilling names as Herbert Rawlinson, Lon Chaney, Kinsley Benedict, William Stowell, Jack Conway, Harry Carey, Franklyn Farnum.

Bowling balls are loaded with dynamite in a new comedy, "Bumping Required to Play an Entire Season," which reaches the end of the alley ceases to exist.

Jackie Saunders, charming movie cut-up, wears short pants barefooted in a newsboy in her next picture. Aubrey Beattie suffered great hardships in a recent production, but it's to be called "A Bit of Kindling."

Williamson brothers, who invented a method of taking motion pictures on the ocean bed, are making a deep-sea drama called "The Submarine's Eye."

Miss Elaine Sterne, reversing the usual process, is writing a novel from a photo-play. It's a romance of the steel mills and is called "The Road to Ambition."

CLIMBED STAIRS ON HER HANDS

Too Ill to Walk Upright. Operation Advised. Saved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This woman now raises chickens and does manual labor. Had her story: "Richmond, Ind.—For two years I was so sick and weak with troubles from my age that when I tried to get up I had to go very slowly with my hands on the steps, then sit down at the top to rest. The doctor said he thought I should have an operation, and my friends thought I would not live to move into our new house. My daughter asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she had taken it with good results. I did so, my weakness disappeared. I gained in strength, moved into our new home, did all kinds of garden work, shoveled dirt, did building and cement work, and raised hundreds of chickens and ducks. I cannot say enough in praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and if these facts are useful to other women, I will be glad to publish them."—Mrs. M. O. JOHNSON, Route D, Box 190, Richmond, Ind.

For Itching Scalp

You do not want a slow treatment for itching scalp when hair is falling and the dandruff germ is killing the hair roots. Delay means no hair. Get at any drug store a bottle of zemo for 25c or $1.00 for extra large size. Use as directed, for it does the work quickly. It kills the dandruff germ, nourishes the hair roots and immediately stops itching scalp. It is a pure, reliable, antiseptic liquid, is not greasy, is easy to use and will not stain. Soaps and shampoos are harmful, as they contain alkali. The best thing to use for scalp irritation is zemo, for it is safe and also inexpensive. The E. W. Rorer Co., Cleveland, O.

Cocoon Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulished cocoon oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair. Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and soft to manage. You can get mulished cocoon oil at almost any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

I know Resinol will heal this rash

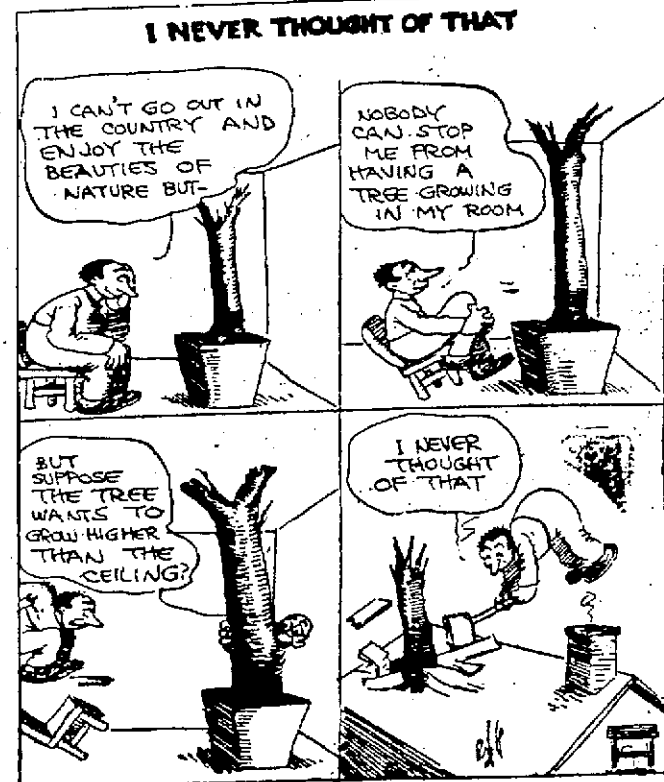

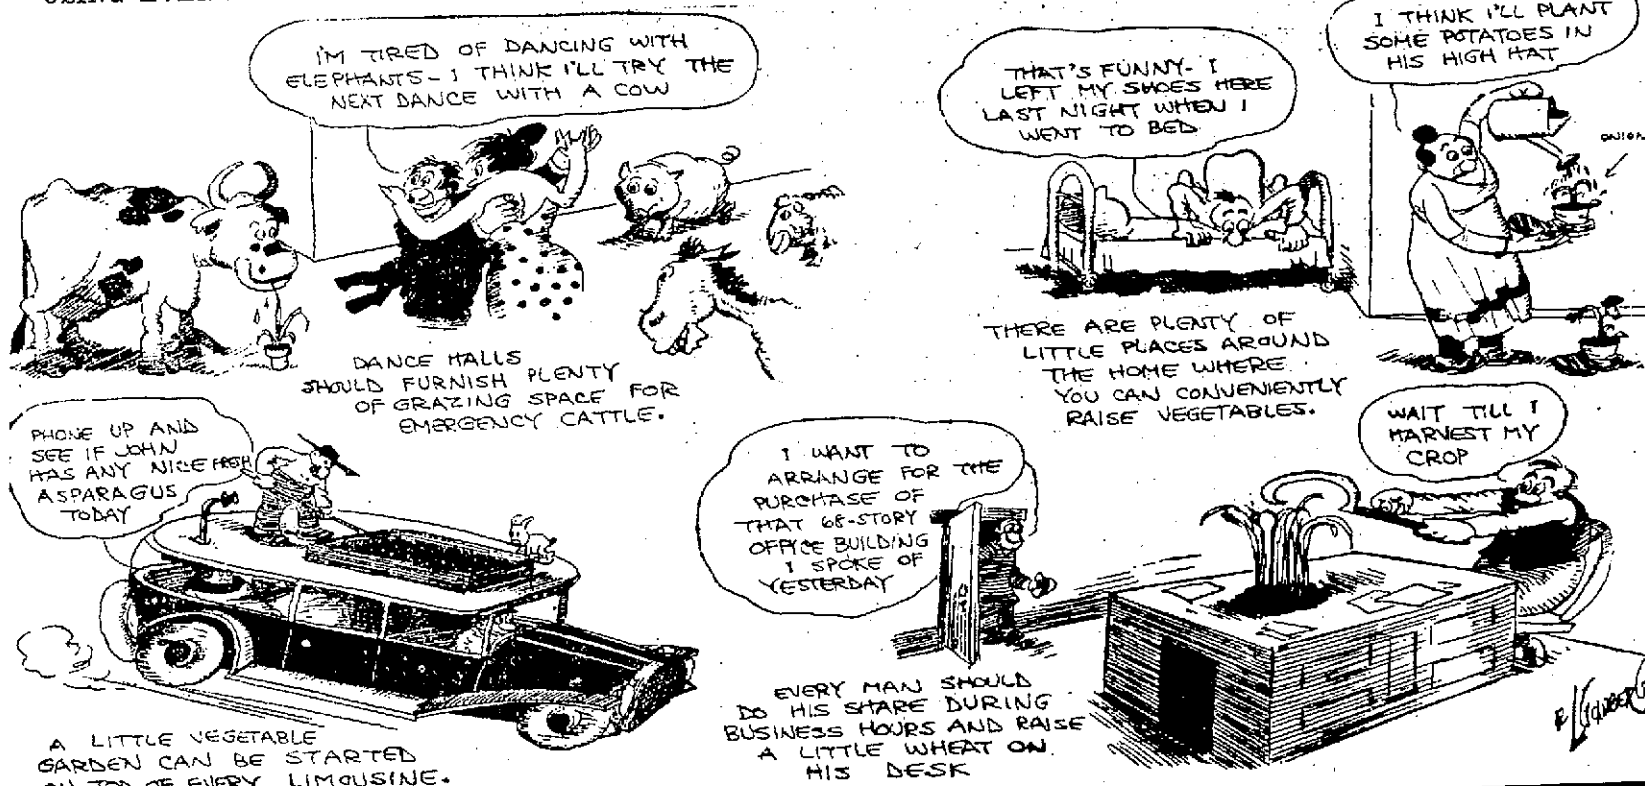

I never worry if I have a little rash or other eruption break out—I just put on a bit of Resinol Ointment. That takes out the itching and burning instantly, and soon clears the trouble away. I learned of Resinol Ointment through our doctor prescribing it for my brother. Tom had been almost frantic with eczema for months but that ointment healed his skin like magic.

A ROMANCE OF THE LEWIS AND CLARK EXPEDITION

By Emerson Hough, Author of "The Mississippi Bubble," "Fifty-four Forty or Fight," Etc.

Copyright, 1916, by Emerson Hough.

CHAPTER XX. The Quality of Mercy. In Richmond jail lay Aaron Burr, the great conspirator, the ruins of his ambition fallen about him. He had found a prison instead of a palace. He was eager no longer to gain a scepter, but only to escape a noose. The great conspiracy was at an end. The only question was of the punishment the accused should have. For in the general belief he was certain of conviction. That he never was convicted has always been one of the most mysterious facts of a mysterious chapter in our national development. So crowded were the hostilities of Richmond that a stranger would have had difficulty in finding lodging there during the six months of the Burr trial. Not so with Meriwether Lewis, now one of the country's famous men. A score of homes opened their doors to him. The town buzzed over his appearance. He had once been the friend of Burr, always the friend of Jefferson. To which side now would he lean? Luther Martin, chief of Burr's counsel, was eager above all to have a word with Meriwether Lewis, so close to affairs in Washington, possibly so useful to himself. Washington Irving, too, assistant to Martin in the great trial, would gladly have had talk with him. All asked what his errand might be. What was the leaning of the governor of the new territory, a man closer to the administration at Washington than any other?

Meriwether Lewis kept his own counsel. He arranged first to see Burr himself. The meagerly furnished anteroom of the federal prison in Richmond was the discredited adventurer's reception hall in those days. Burr advanced to meet his visitor with something of his own old boyishness of mien, a little of the former brilliance of his eye. "Governor, I am delighted to see you back safe and sound from your journey. My congratulations, sir!" Meriwether Lewis made no reply, but gazed at him steadily, well aware of the stinging sarcasm of his words. "I have few friends now," said Aaron Burr. "You have many. You are on the floodtide. It elates for him. When one loses, what mercy is shown to him? That scoundrel Merry—he promised everything and gave nothing. Xeno—he is worse yet in his treachery. Even the French minister, Turreau—who surely ought to listen to the wishes of the great French population of the Mississippi valley—pays no attention to his petitions whatever and none to mine. These were my former friends. I promised them a country, Colonel Burr—from what?" "From that great ownerless land yonder the west. But they waited and waited until your success was sure."

"You promised them a country, Colonel Burr—from what?" "Why, that scoundrel Merry is here this very day—the effrontery of him! He wants nothing more to do with me. No; he is here to undertake to recoup himself in his own losses by reason of money he advanced to me some time ago. He is importing my son-in-law, Mr. Alston, to pay him back those funds which once he was so ready to furnish to us. But Mr. Alston is ruined—we are all ruined. No; they waited too long!" "They waited until it was too late," Lewis returned. "That country is American now, not British or Spanish or French. Our men are passing across the river in thousands. They will never lose their hold on the west. It was treason to the future that you planned, but it was hopeless from the first."

"It would seem, sir," said Aaron Burr, a cynical smile twisting his thin lip, "that I may not count upon your friendship."

"That is a hard speech, Colonel Burr. I was your friend."

"More than your chief ever was. I fancy Mr. Jefferson would like to see me pilloried, drawn and quartered, after the old way."

"You are unjust to him. You struck at the greatest ambition of his life—struck at his heart and the heart of his country—when you undertook to separate the west from this republic."

"I am a plain man and a busy man," said Aaron Burr coldly. "I must employ my time now to the betterment of my situation. I have failed, and you have won. But let me throw the cloak aside since I know you can do me no service to me. I care not what punishment you may have—what suffering—because I recognize in you the one great cause of my failure. It was you, sir, with your cursed expedition, that defeated Aaron Burr!"

He turned, proud and defiant even in his failure, and when Meriwether Lewis looked up he was gone. Burr passed Meriwether Lewis heard a light step in the long corridor. Under guard of the turnkey some one stood at the door. It was the figure of a woman, a figure which caused him to halt, caused his heart to leap.

She came toward him now, all in mourning black—hat, gown and gloves. Her face was pale, her eyes deep, her mouth drooping. Theodosia Alston was always thus on her daily visit to her father's cell. Herself the picture of failure and despair, she was used to avoiding the eyes of all, but she saw Meriwether Lewis standing before her, strong, tall, splendid in his manhood and vigor, in the full tide of his success. She was almost in touch of his hand when he raised her eyes to his. These two had met at last after what far wanderings apart. They had met as if each came from the Valley of the Shadows. Out of the vastness of the unknown, over all those long and desolate trails, into what now seemed to him a world still more vast, more fraught with desperate peril, he had come back to her. And she—what had been her perils? What were her thoughts?

"What he saw in her grave face, her mournful eyes uplifted to his own—this was the solution of the riddle of his life, the reason for his moods of melancholy, the answer to a thousand unspoken prayers. He felt his heart thrill strong and full, felt his blood spring in strong current through his veins until they strained, until he felt his nerves tingle as he stood, silent, endeavoring to still the tumult within him."

To her he was—what? A tall and handsome gentleman, immaculately clad, governor of the newest of our territories, the largest and richest realm ever laid under the rule of any vicerey. A bystander might have pondered on such things, but Meriwether Lewis had no thought of them, nor had the woman who looked up at him. No; to her eyes there stood only the man who made her blood leap, her soul cry out:

"Yea, yea! Now I know!" To her, also, from the divine compassion, was given answer for her questionings. She knew that life for her, even though it ended now, had been no blind puzzle, after all, but was a glorious and perfect thing. She had called to him across the deep, and he had heard and come. From the grave he had arisen and come again to her. Even here under the shadow of the gallows—even if, as both knew in their supreme renunciation, they must part and never meet again—for them both there could be peaceful calm, with all life's questions answered, beautifully and surely answered, never again to rise for conquering.

"Sir—captain—that is to say, Governor Lewis," she corrected herself. "I was not expecting you."

Her tone seemed icy, though her soul was in her eyes. She was always the defense, as Lewis instantly understood. He took her hand in both of his own and looked into her face. She gazed up at him, and swiftly, mindfully, the tears came. Gently, as if she had been a child, he dried them for her, as once when a boy he had promised to do. They were alone now. The cold silence of the prison was about them, but their own long silence seemed a golden, glowing thing. Thus only in their silence could they speak. They did not know that they stood hand in hand.

"My husband is not here," said she at length, gently disengaging her hand from his. "No one knows me now. Every one avoids me. You must not be seen with me—a pariah, an outcast. I am my father's only friend. Already they condemn him, yet he is as innocent as any man ever was."

"I shall say no word to change that belief," said Meriwether Lewis. "But your husband is not here? It is he whom I must see at once?" "Why must you see him?" "You must know. It is my duty to him and to tell him that I am the man who—made you weep. He must have his satisfaction. Nothing that he can do will punish me as my own conscience has already punished me. It is no use—I shall not ask you to forgive me. I will not be so cheap." "But—suppose he does not know?" "He could only stand silent, regarding her fixedly. "He must never know," she went on. "It is no time for quixotism to make yet another suffer. We two must be strong enough to carry our own secret. It is better and kinder than it should be between two men among three. I thought you dead. Let the past remain past; let it bury its own dead."

Orfordville News

Orfordville, May 3.—That the spirit of patriotism and love for country is alive in this part of Rock county was demonstrated on Tuesday evening, when an audience that packed every foot of standing room in the school auditorium gathered to participate in a patriotic meeting called by the Defense League.

The Luther Valley Band, under the leadership of Al. Kneff of Janesville was in attendance and furnished the music for the occasion. President B. J. Taylor had charge of the meeting, and the first speaker was Rev. H. G. Rogers. Mr. Rogers impressed the audience with the seriousness of the situation with which the country is confronted, and urged upon everyone to do their bit in any way that might be suggested by those having the matter of defense in hand. He made a stirring appeal for the old time patriotism for which men in other days have been noted.

He was followed by Mr. Carl E. Markham, who in an impassioned address pointed out the fact that is hard for the American people to grasp, that we are confronted by a food situation such as has never been known before in our history. That there is actually a shortage of many of the necessities of life and that the only way for this condition to be prevented is by becoming constantly worse is for everyone, man, woman and child, to strive to do something to increase the productivity of the land. L. E. Markham then spoke of the actual shortage of cereals and live stock in the state of Wisconsin and in Rock county. He gave statistics to show that the shortage of these commodities is so great that it is really serious, and that by reason of it, appalling conditions are sure to follow. He urged upon the farmers to do more thorough and more intensive farming, to attempt to regain the loss that the county has recently suffered in the decreased number of livestock, to test all seeds and thus get the best possible results for their labor.

Several local men made short addresses, urging united and intensified efforts to produce food not only for our own people but for our allies, of which we are now a part. Arrangements were made to furnish all seed at the lowest possible figure to meet the conditions governing the corn. Orrin and Alfred Ovestrud left by automobile on Thursday afternoon for Canada, where they expect to spend several weeks. They were accompanied as far as Springfield, Minn., by their mother, who expects to make an extended visit with friends there. Mr. E. H. Hocking of Janesville was in the village for a few hours on Thursday in the interests of his company. A. E. Tomlin went to Hanover on Thursday afternoon, in connection with a private electric lighting plant there.

Bodily Housekeeping

(By Samuel Hamilton, M. D.) The subject of drinking water with meals has been misunderstood. In recent years, investigation by means of X-rays, the observations of scientists such as Cannon, Grutner, Taylor, Fowler, Hawk, prove that an abundance of water taken during digestion is necessary in good bodily housekeeping. Drink plenty of water both between meals and with each meal. Do not drink ice-water at any time. If your kidneys are sick, or you suffer with lumbago or rheumatism at times, pain in the back or back of the neck, take a little Anuric before meals. This can be found at any good drug store. Therefore, my advice to young or old is, always drink plenty of pure water. And for long life occasionally take tablets of Anuric three or four times a day.

MAY EXTIRPATE GERMAN FROM MILWAUKEE SCHOOLS

Milwaukee, May 4.—Teaching of the German language has come up for concerted attack in Milwaukee schools as a result of the war. Instructors and educators have even gone so far as to assert that the teaching of German in schools was the work of German propagandists seeking to stretch Teutonic sympathies throughout the world. It is probable the language will be eliminated from many grades.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I congratulate you on your good work, only you are not making it half strong enough. Fathers and mothers, wake up! Do not be timid about talking to our children about anything which may lead to higher, cleaner, manhood and womanhood.

Boys and girls do want to be good and a great many mistakes are made because they have never been told. I am a happy wife and mother and I want to raise my little son a clean American boy.

To think apart from the fact that women are old cranks who don't know what they are talking about. Listen, girls, I know fully what we are saying. We are just girls grown older and we want to kiss us and be very long ago. Some of us let them once in a while and it did not spoil our lives, but looking back we wish from the bottom of our hearts we had saved them for the right man when he came along.

Look out for the kind of a man who can see no farther than a kiss and a "flirt." Such a man starts the beginning of a lot of trouble to a girl. Most men are very careful to choose the right kind of a woman for their life-long companion and the mother of their children.

Girls should do everything in their power to protect themselves against a undesirable type of man.

MRS. S. F. GETTIE.
Parents would save their children many heartaches if they would do as you say, talk to their boys and girls. There is not enough companionship between parents and their children in most homes.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Please tell me the duties of a bridesmaid at a simple wedding with only the two attendants.

(2) Who enters the church with the bride?
R. A.

The bridesmaid simple walks before the bride to the altar and stands there during the ceremony. The bride will tell you exactly what she wants you to do.

(2) The bride enters the church with the bride.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl twenty-five years old, but I don't look over twenty. I am going with a young man of twenty-one and am very much in love with him. Do you think there is too much difference in our ages for us to marry?

DOUBTFUL.
The boy is too young to think of marrying. Such marriages are never happy when the man is considerably older than the girl, but as a rule the man should be as old or older.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a boy seventeen years old and I have been going with a girl my own age. When we meet on the street who should speak first?
BOB.

Speak without waiting for her to go and she will probably speak too. It is childish not to speak after a quarrel.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl twenty-five years old, but I don't look over twenty. I am going with a young man of twenty-one and am very much in love with him. Do you think there is too much difference in our ages for us to marry?

DOUBTFUL.
The boy is too young to think of marrying. Such marriages are never happy when the man is considerably older than the girl, but as a rule the man should be as old or older.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a boy seventeen years old and I have been going with a girl my own age. When we meet on the street who should speak first?

Household Hints

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

MAKE BEAN MEAT.
With dried beans selling at 17 cents a pound the housewife should plan to raise a generous supply of household food. Beans are a limited beanhouse may be provided in the back yard. Drive four posts into the ground to form the corners of the house. Lay poles or light boards on the posts and nail securely. Poultry netting made be spread over the top or a gabled roof may be made, by providing a strong ridge pole.

Plant White Kidney Beans, Missouri Wonder, Kentucky Wonder or some other good pole bean, every four inches around the outer edge, leaving a space for a door. The house is covered. Put nails in gable ends and fasten strings from the nails to pegs on the front and rear sides. Pickling beans in this house is a pleasure and the beans are thick clusters from the walls and roof.

TO COVER UMBRELLAS.
This is the time of year when the children's school umbrellas need recovering, cover them yourself. You will be surprised how much you can save. Get two yards of black satin or black cloth and cut one gore carefully and press, lay gore on new goods, with wide end on the selvage and point of gore to middle of goods. So the side of the umbrella is covered. Turn under all points of gore and leave a small hole for top of hole in the ribs. Then sew middle of each seam to middle of ribs. Three covers for the price of one.

AN ECONOMICAL DISH.
This time of year potatoes have much less water in them than in the fall. Their quality and quantity can be improved and increased in the following manner:
Potatoes can be boiled in their jackets, allowed to cool slightly, then peeled and mashed with either potato masher or ricer, preferably the latter. Then to a consistency that potatoes can be beaten light by adding a little milk and the rest water. You think there is too much difference in our ages for us to marry?

HEALTH TALKS

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

THE GIRL WHO GREW LAZY.
The young woman doesn't look lazy, yet we have her own mother's word for it. Father concurring, that she is getting too lazy for anything. Mother opines that a girl who is too lazy to get up before ten in the morning needs the doctor's attention, and she is generally right in her opinion.

A girl rather tall and slender, aged 19, blond, apparently not blessed with too much blood—for she yawns every time she wakes, and that indicates that her tissues are not well oxygenated. Last year she graduated from high school. She has never been very robust, still never seriously ill, but has been no dancer, and she has lost her former vivacity and seems to be good for nothing but lying abed mornings and going out nights to dancing parties.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Cause of Shortness of Breath.
Please tell me what causes shortness of breath and what would be the proper remedy. I breathe easily when sitting, standing still or lying down, but have to stop half a dozen times for breath when walking the length of a city block.

ANSWER.—Heart disease, anemia, arteriosclerosis, pleurisy with effusion (perhaps painless), tuberculosis, chronic bronchitis, emphysema, Bright's disease, aneurism, or tumor in the chest might cause such shortness of breath. So you see, an examination by your doctor is imperative.

Consumption and Lime.
Kindly tell me if consumption, also if time-containing medicines are good for consumption. What effect has coal gas on the lungs? Would a few drops of iodine in a solution be good to keep the nasal passages clear?

ANSWER.—No, there is no reason to suppose that a deficiency of lime is concerned with consumption. Hence time-containing medicines would be worthless. However, such medicines may be at times useful for wholly different reasons, as expectorants, oppose hemorrhage, as antacids, etc. Coal gas temporarily irritates the lungs. There is no permanent effect, but it poisons the blood. The use of iodine would be irritating in the nasal passages. Normal salt solution (tablets) in a solution of boiled water, or Alkaline Antiseptic Solution (National Formulary), with six or eight parts of warm water would be good to clean the nasal passages—used as a spray.

If you are looking for an investment, read what is offered in the want columns.

We give the patient a few doses of sodium iodide to stimulate expectoration. It proves successful and we obtain enough for microscopic examination. No bacilli. Never mind. That is only a detail. We diagnose incipient pulmonary tuberculosis.

We may be wrong. True. But better wrong than too late. We shall try to it that the treatment shall be good whether the diagnosis is right or wrong.

We send the patient and family up the lake for the season. Fresh air is the best of tonics. Sunshine the strongest germicide and restorative. Three months, six months, perhaps a year of it, will restore the girl's health and strength, whether she has TB or not.

When a young person grows indolent and apparently lacks vim and vitality, make sure tuberculosis is not lighting up.

OUTWITTING THE LAW.

Tramp—I'm afraid a policeman is going to arrest me.

Lady—Well, what can I do for you?
Tramp—Take me arm, and be talking 'tuh me loving like, an' he'll think I'm yer husband.

A gentleman down the aisle of a street car, whether entering or leaving the car, as he should alight in church, at a theater or in any place of amusement, if the aisle is wide enough to permit it, the gentleman should walk beside the lady. In all places of amusement, where there are reserved seats, there are ushers; otherwise, the lady's choice of seats should be good enough for both. If there is an usher, the lady follows him, and the gentleman follows her.

C. S. D. When a lady and gentleman meet on the street, the lady bows first, unless they are old acquaintances, and the gentleman is sure of a cordial recognition. In that case, he need not wait for her to bow, but they may greet each other simultaneously.

CUT OUT POTATO EYES TO PLANT AS SEED, AT HOTELS, IN COLUMBUS, O.

Columbus, O., May 4.—Here's a potato "tip"—save it!
Did you ever notice that the eyes on a potato are more numerous at the tip?

Someone suggested to Governor Cox that each eye is the seed for a sprout. The result is that every Columbus hotel and restaurant, at the governor's request, is paring off the potato tips. They are being distributed to back yard gardeners, thus conserving the scanty potato supply.

Governor Cox is now trying to get restaurant men in other Ohio cities to do the same. "Columbus alone is yielding many bushels of tips every day under this plan," said the governor today.

THIS MAN WOULD FIGHT FOR A CHANCE TO FIGHT.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Los Angeles, May 4.—There's a strapping youth here who wants to fight for Uncle Sam, and who will fight, too. If the war lasts long enough, there are two extremes in this fighting business—the slackers who won't fight and the fellows who will almost fight for a chance to fight.

This big fellow appeared at the recruiting station two weeks back, but a certain rush of work crowded him away. Two days later he came back but the examiner found the scar from a recent appendicitis operation, and he was rejected.

A week went by. A familiar face appeared at the recruiting station. The man wanted to join "the soldiers of the sea." The examination disclosed a wonderfully tattooed butterfly. Close inspection showed this mark all but hid an appendicitis operation scar. The lad was rejected. He may now serve his country by becoming a farmer.

Aunt Laura's Visits Are Not a Source of Keen Delight to Douglas.

"When did you say she was coming?" asked Douglas. Eleanor referred to a letter in her hand. "Eleven forty-five Thursday evening."

"That's an awful time to get in. You won't get much sleep that night," Eleanor looked worried. Douglas had been far from well, and a heavy cold had laid him down and it was by sheer force of will that he kept going.

"Does she say anything about my meeting her? Maybe she will come out in a taxi," he replied hopefully.

"Don't you think it, Aunt Laura would no more think of hiring a taxi than she would a special train. Taxis did not belong to her generation," Eleanor guessed you are right," sighed Douglas. "The trouble is, trains are never on time these days. I may be in for an all-night wait."

"I know it." There was a long silence.

"Douglas, I have something to ask you. I hate to mention it for I know you will not like it." She stopped. "Fire away. I have my courage screwed up to the sticking point," encouraged her husband. Eleanor smiled faintly.

"It is this. You know how Aunt Laura feels about going to church? I would not have her know that you have not been to church for months for anything."

"Behave!" She would live through the shock all right. Douglas smiled. "You are about my smoking the last time she came and she never turned a hair when I lit my after-dinner cigar." Douglas smiled, reminding her of the time she was long in it since she visited us."

Cranks.
The crank is an arrangement to grind out things.

A tariff prohibiting, bowling, or, stamp collecting or other variety of human crank will grind the soul out of anybody that'll listen to him.

The crank is also engaged to grind out coffee, hand-organ music, family washings, buckets of water from wells and other crankable things.

There are a few ways to turn a crank. But the best way is to turn him clear around and give him a swift kick.

THE HEAVENS IN MAY

By C. S. Brannin of the Columbia University Staff.

The most interesting newcomer on our map is the brilliant Vega, the brightest star of the constellation of the Lyre, which is rising well up in the northeast. Vega is the second brightest star visible from these northern latitudes, and is exceeded only by Sirius, the giant dogstar, which is now below the horizon.

In astronomical language the magnitude of Vega is one-seventh; it is brighter than a first magnitude, for brightnesses go inversely as the square of the distance. The magnitude of a star, however, does not give us an exact indication of the star's actual size and brilliancy, because two factors make up the apparent brightness as seen by us. These two factors are the actual intrinsic brightness and the distance of the star and the distance which the star may be from us. The apparent magnitude of the star makes up what the magnitude of the star appears to us. It is only when we can get a value of the actual distance of the star and combine that with the apparent magnitude that we arrive at a true appreciation of the actual greatness or intrinsic luminosity of the star.

Fortunately in the case of Vega the astronomers have been able to measure the distance and have found it to be 1,320,000 times as far from us as the sun, which itself is not less than 93,000,000 miles away from the earth. Measurements of the energy of the light sent to the Earth by Vega show that it is compared to sunlight as one is to 66 billions. Combining this with the measurement of Vega's distance brings out that it is at least forty-nine times as powerful a radiator as our sun.

Two more interesting things in connection with Vega are that the entire solar system, sun and planets, are in continuous motion in the direction of Vega and that some day in the distant future the procession of the equinoxes will make the north pole of the Earth point nearly toward Vega and make it serve as a pole star for us, instead of Polaris.

How to Tell Time by the Stars. To be able to tell about the right time by means of the stars may become a piece of knowledge of such great value to one or another of our readers that we have thought it well to explain here a simple method of turning the sky into a clock. The first thing to do is to turn north and find the pole star; this can best be done by remembering that the two stars forming the outside line of the bowl of the Dipper are called the Pointer stars and that by extending an imaginary line connecting them in the direction of the opening of the bowl we reach a star which shines brightly in a field devoid of other bright stars, and this is Polaris. If we knew the approximate latitude of the place where we are, we could find the position of the pole star by the astronomical theorem that the pole is elevated above the horizon a number of degrees which equals exactly the latitude of the observer. In New York, where the latitude is about 41 degrees north, we expect to find the pole star at an elevation of 41 degrees above the horizon, or, approximately, half way up to the zenith.

The pole star will then serve for us as the center of the clock dial into which we shall turn the northern heavens. The hour hand will be represented by an imaginary line joining the pole star with the star Beta Cassiopeia, as shown on the accompanying map. This star happens to be almost exactly on the line joining the north celestial pole and the vernal equinox, which latter is the point to which astronomical sidereal time is referred. When the vernal equinox is on the observer's meridian it is 0 hours sidereal time, or the beginning of the sidereal day; at that instant the line joining the north pole and the vernal equinox is coincident with the meridian, and so is also the line joining the pole and Beta Cassiopeia. This line goes all the way around again to its starting place in 24 sidereal hours. It is now possible to make an estimate of the amount of the turning which has been completed at the time of observation. This will give us the sidereal time if we take the proportional ratio out of twenty-four hours. When half the entire swing is completed the sidereal time will be twelve hours, when the line joining the pole and Beta Cassiopeia extends horizontally westward one quarter of the revolution has been accomplished, and the sidereal time is six hours. A little practice will enable us to estimate the sidereal time this way well within a half hour.

The next part of the problem is to convert the star into time, and this is done by calculating the number of days which have elapsed since March 22. On that date the sun time and star time are approximately the same, and thereafter the sidereal time gets ahead of the sun at the rate of three minutes and fifty-five seconds per day, or roughly an hour every two weeks. The solar time then will be always so many hours and minutes behind the sidereal time. If the calculated solar time thus comes out over twelve hours, the care simply subtract twelve from the number of hours. As an example let us suppose that the date of our observation is May 8 and that at the time of the observation the hour hand line from Beta to the pole star was extending eastward in a horizontal direction. Three-quarters of the diurnal revolution will have been accomplished, and therefore the sidereal time at that instant would be roughly 38 hours. The number of days which have elapsed since March 22 is 45, and therefore, at the rate ahead of the sun will have lagged behind the vernal equinox about 3 hours, making the solar time 18 minus 3, or 15 hours. Subtracting 12 from this gives 3, and the correct solar time would be about 3 a. m.

EAGLES PLAN FOR A BIG MARCHING CLUB

To Attend State Convention at Racine In June.—Presented Captain Caldwell With Saber.

Jansville, Aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles plans to have a good sized delegation in attendance at the state convention of the order when it is held at Racine in June. Six delegates to represent the Aerie were elected last evening, and plans made for the organization of a marching club to accompany them and take part in the big parade. The delegates chosen were Charles P. Newton, Edward Badger, Fred Howard, James Spohn, Tim J. McKeigue and Louis Brummond. The meeting for the organization of the marching club has been called for Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. By the unanimous vote of the Aerie Captain E. N. Caldwell, commander of Company M of the 1st W. N. C., was presented with a handsome saber. The captain was invited to come to the hall accompanied by a special committee, and worthy President Charles P. Newton, in a few well chosen words, made the presentation speech. Captain Caldwell was taken by surprise at the action of the Aerie, but expressed his appreciation of the token of esteem expressed by the gift and thanked the members for their kindness.

HERE'S COMPOSITION OF ARMY DIVISION ORGANIZED IN U. S.

A division and its equipment. Washington, D. C., May 4.—Compiled from data not hitherto published, the National Geographic society has issued from its headquarters in Washington the following bulletin on the units and equipment of an infantry division of the United States army as reorganized in the light of lessons learned during the thirty-one months of warfare in Europe.

"As reorganized for the war with Germany, an infantry division of the United States army will number 65 percent more than a division of the German army as now constituted. The enemy's divisions are made up of 17,000 men and 4,000 horses; the United States division at a maximum strength will be composed of 25,235 men, 6,834 horses, and 4,875 mules. "The average layman has little conception of the various units which go to make up an infantry division or the enormous cost of its equipment. According to estimates made two years ago, the cost of fully equipping a division amounts to $7,636,554, but since that time the cost of materials has advanced so greatly that a conservative estimate requires the addition of 20 percent to this amount, making the total in excess of $9,000,000. And this takes into consideration the immense saving effected by the Council of National Defense in providing for the purchase by the government of munitions and equipment at a profit to the manufacturers not to exceed 10 percent, which is far less than the profits ordinarily realized on materials sold in the world markets.

A Division and Its Equipment. The new U. S. army divisions will be composed of the following units: Three infantry brigades, 18,579 officers and men; one field artillery brigade, 4,030 officers and men; one regiment of cavalry, 1,500 officers and men; 1,541 horses; one regiment of field signal battalion, 259 officers and men; 1,098 officers and men; one field signal battalion, 259 officers and men; one aero squadron, 173 officers and men; 12 airplanes; total, 25,235 men, 6,834 horses, and 4,875 mules.

The number of commissioned officers in a division is 817, with 90 additional officers for the wagon trains; 32 if the division is organized with motor trains.

The medical department of a division is composed of 125 officers, 1,332 enlisted men, and 48 ambulances. If the division is equipped with wagons, 1,009 wagons are required, supplemented by 67 motor trucks; if equipped with motor trains 493 wagons supplement the 827 motor trucks. The total number of riding horses required for a division and its wagon trains is 4,616, together with 2,215 draft horses and 4,875 riding, pack and draft mules.

quired to arm a division and its trains, together with 8,600 pistols. The artillery consists of 50 three-inch field guns firing either high explosive or shrapnel, each projectile weighing 15 pounds, and 25 3.8-inch howitzers, the shells for which weigh 30 pounds. The number of machine guns with which a division is to be equipped is still an open question, but the number which will appear in army charts soon to be printed is 72 for the division itself and 20 additional guns for the wagon trains. The number in all probability will be greatly increased, perhaps to as high as 30 guns for every 1,000 rifles, making a total of 600 for the division.

The length of a division in marching order is more than 14 miles, while the wagon trains require an additional six miles, making a grand total of 20 miles. If equipped with motor trains instead of wagon trains the length from the head of the column to the last of the rear guard is 13 miles.

Within the next few weeks detailed tables, prepared by the Army War College in Washington, will be issued from the government printing office, showing the strength and equipment of each unit of the various branches of the United States army. The foregoing statistics are based upon these forthcoming tables.

The Penalty. Little John is a continued sleepy-head. One morning when he was more than usually averse to getting up, his mother reasoned with him by calling his attention to the flowers. "Why, the little flowers have been awake for hours," she told him, "and here you are at eight o'clock still in bed."

"Oh, well," was the reply. "Look what awful dirty beds they have, and how nice and clean mine is!"

Unforeseen. Helen was attending her first party. When refreshments were served she refused a second helping to ice cream with a polite "No, thank you," although her look was wistful.

"Oh, do have some more ice cream, dear," the hostess urged.

"Mother told me I must say, 'No, thank you,'" explained the little girl, "but I don't believe she knew the dishes were going to be so small."

MANY GOING TO FORT; TEAM LINE-UP IS OUT

FANS ORGANIZE THEIR OWN PARTIES TO GET TO FORT TO WITNESS OPENING BATTLE OF LOCALS.

6 PITCHERS ON STRING

Five Local Boys and George Fuick of Whitewater on List—Joe Ryan to Start at Third Sack.

It is highly apparent around town that if Sunday is a good day a big delegation of Janesville fans will witness their first team in organized baseball in years, open its schedule with the classy aggregation representing Fort Atkinson in the Central State league at the Fort. Although the club directors have abandoned plans for a big booster meeting to arouse enthusiasm for a late following Sunday, and have decided to hold this meeting the week after next, previous to the opening home game, the fans report that the Janesville delegation Sunday will be the largest to follow a local team to an out-of-town game in several seasons.

President William P. Langdon today gave out his lineup for the battle with the Fort. From the past performances of the players a resume of the front shows that the squad is a classy and speedy bunch.

A string of six pitchers is being carried for the present and George Fuick of Whitewater who played with East Troy last year is slated to open the game. The remaining five are all local boys, although Chamberlain is hammering out wagon axles and horse shoes in a blacksmith shop and lives at Emerald Grove. The other four are: (R. B. Beyer, Bill Neir, “Cuddly” Butters and Pete Fleming. Both the Fort and Whitewater attempted to sign up Chamberlain, but he was finally secured by Manager Cole.

Grant of New Richmond, one of the classiest catchers in the semi-pro ranks, will be on the receiving end. Grant was with Lake Geneva last year and caught Corbin in the famous 16 inning 1 to 0 game against McHenry, Ill.

Thompson of the Sheboygan team of the Lake Shore league will start at shortstop. There is a fight on for this position between him and Kingston of East Troy. The latter is ill at present and it is likely that he will be out of a Janesville uniform until our first home game, two weeks from Sunday. Manager Cole has promised both a tryout and the best man keeps his word.

Lacey, another East Troy player, will start at first and Goodman, who has played opposite Lacey at East Troy, and who also has been with Lake Shore league for several years, will hold down second.

Joe Ryan is the only local boy in the infield and Manager Cole will play him at third. “Blondie” has been acting things up considerably with his club around the circuit that his Dubuque college team has been traveling. He has been covering third base this season and has been showing up in great form.

Chamberlain will play the right garden. Manager of Milwaukee, center, and Manager of Fort, left field. It is possible that the utility pitchers will be given an opportunity to show their worth as Cole is planning to give each a tryout to demonstrate his worth.

Rules for boxing these left handers are set down in every good book on boxing, and old time teachers of the art could show their pupils how to protect one's self from their attacks.

YOUR NEW AUTOMOBILE

How to Keep Its Fine Body Surfaces Like New

Depreciation in automobile values is more a matter of appearance than of mechanical wear and tear. Why people pay so little attention to the care of the body surfaces is hard to understand. Most cars look a year old after two or three months under ordinary treatment. It is a very simple matter to keep the auto body practically like new for several seasons—simply by cleaning and polishing in the right way.

Tobey Polish, the old secret shop formula of The Tobey Furniture Company (Chicago & New York), is a perfect preparation for auto body requirements. It is recommended and exclusively used by many leading dealers and makers.

It cleans off all dirt and grease, easily and quickly, without hard rubbing; does not gum; wipes off dry; does not catch the dust. Does not coat over the surface—simply maintains and beautifies the original finish.

Your own dealer will supply you. Quarts, $1; bottles, 50c and 25c. This trademark appears on every package:

—MORRIS MILLER

Every once in a while some boxer appears who uses the style of standing with his right foot in front and his right arm extended. Men who use this method are of the class who pick up boxing and do not take any lessons in the art. No teacher of boxing would induce a pupil to box that way. Generally one boxer in a hundred stands in that position. Very few men who use it ever become champions.

The most noted examples of boxers standing that way were Tom Sayers among the old timers, and Al McCoy among the modern glove fighters. Sayers was champion of England, and McCoy is now accustomed to claim that he is middleweight champion of America. But in each case it was the man and not the style which was the factor in winning success.

Sayers was a remarkable man in many ways. He could hit hard, was wonderfully game, and could take a tremendous amount of punishment. It is related of him that in his fight with John C. Heenan, Sayers fought for over an hour with one of his arms broken.

In his recent bout with Jack Dillon, McCoy hit the Indianapolis pugilist with such force that he was sent to the hospital without flinching. It is a puzzle to the other school of boxers. But this is the case where the man who uses the proper style has been thoroughly trained.

Old Philadelphia followers of boxing remember Mike Cardo, the “Cuddly” who used to fight for Johnny Clark and Arthur Chambers and at the Comique theater. He was a thick-set fellow, rough and strong. He stood with his right foot advanced, and his right hand extended, and was as awkward as any of that style of boxers now in the ring.

He proved a puzzle to most of the fighters he met here till he encountered Jack Dempsey, a man much lighter and smaller than himself, and Dempsey made a punching bag of him, cutting him to ribbons and easily avoiding the terrific punches of the powerful Cardo.

WHITWATER HIGH BOYS RECEIVE SCHOOL CREDIT FOR WORKING ON FARMS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Whitewater, May 4.—Boys from the high school who can do a man's work on a farm are to be given credit in school work. It will be necessary that they have a statement signed by some reliable person at the end of every week that they have actually done a man's work on some farm. The school board will have left the school here for work in the rural districts.

The meetings of Child Welfare week continue to draw large attendance. Yesterday Judge Jay F. Lyon addressed the meeting. The program continues until Sunday afternoon. One of the best lectures of the week will be Sunday afternoon by Dr. Paul Volcker of the University of Wisconsin, who will have for his address, “The Heritage of the Race.” This lecture deals with the psychology of the working class and is a straight from the shoulder talk within the compass of the average listener. He is one of the few lecturers who can make a scientific talk popular.

The local school will be well represented at Edgerton today where the high school contests are to be held. Miss Florence Brown will give “Bobbin' on a Bow” and Leo Berg will be the speaker in the oratorical contest.

Mrs. Frances Rainsworth of Spring Lake, Mich., is here visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jay Brockway and other friends. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Winn have been here visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Winn.

Miss Fleming returned to her home in Milwaukee, Wednesday, after spending several days with her sister, Mrs. Anna Meracie.

The Social Auxiliary of the M. E. Church had an annual banquet and election of officers Tuesday evening. After a delicious 6:30 dinner in the church parlor the election of officers resulted as follows: Pres., Miss Minnie Koops; Vice President, Miss Edith Kiehl; Secretary, Mrs. T. E. Lean; Treasurer, Mrs. Grace Shetter. At this time their dollar experiences was given and a neat little sum to carry on their work resulted.

Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Hartman and two children of Algona, Iowa, were guests Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dixon. Hartman was formerly Miss Faith Stair.

D. W. Wilber is here this week from Hawkeye, Iowa. He came to attend the funeral of Byron Moore. T. J. Bower is spending a few days in Milwaukee on business.

When Not to Smoke.
By exhausting the salivary secretion smoking before meals prevents the physiological action of the saliva on starchy foods. Smoking just before going to bed is often followed by insomnia, because the stomach contains a quality of unneutralized juice, which irritates the mucosa and gives rise to a sensation of hunger. This distressing consequence may be averted by taking either some light food or a little bicarbonate of soda before retiring to rest in order to neutralize the secretion.—London Lancet.

SEEK CLOSER UNION OF ITALY, FRANCE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Rome, Italy, May 4.—National jealousies and artistic rivalries which have been noticeable barriers in past years to close co-operation between Italy and France, are being forgotten in the stress of the world war and are giving way to a feeling of close unity that may result in a close alliance of the two great Latin countries.

This new condition of affairs, which is being appreciated more fully daily, was placed squarely before Italy today by a significant article published by the Secolo di Turin. It was headed, “Union Latina,” and was written by the distinguished Romolo Caggese.

Recent events in Russia, in the United States and in China have fixed the eyes of the world on the future, Caggese asserts. “One hundred million Germans will occupy Central Europe. Several square kilometers of territory stretching across two continents will be peopled by two hundred million Slavs. To balance such a large Latin family, holding possessions between the Channel and Gibraltar and the Tiber and the Yonic must be formed. It must, moreover, be formed on a firm and solid basis.”

Caggese predicts that the world will be “dominated by the law of numbers and racial feelings will become stronger than they have been. Other wise,” he says, “the results of victory will amount to nothing.”

The nationalistic Idea Nazionale of Rome appears to be editorially campaigning for the union of the Latins. Even South America with its thousands of Latin-born people, falls under the speculative glance of this paper.

There is much speculation as to the attitude of the present pope. He is often characterized as “Rompola's pupil,” and Rompola as cardinal secretary of state favored and worked for a union of Latin nations.

He Meant No Disrespect.
A woman, exacting and very hard to please, entered a downtown department store the other day to buy a suit. By the exercise of much patience the clerk at length made the sale. On the customary sales slip were written the name of the article, the sale price and the cost price. The cost price happened to be expressed by the letters “HEN.” When the customer received her duplicate of the sales slip she saw the cost mark. She turned to the clerk and said:

“I know I have been very difficult to please, but I do think you ought not to designate me in your store records by the disrespectful term ‘hen.’”—Detroit Free Press.

How to Clean Straw Hats.
“To make straw hats look like new,” says the Woman's Home Companion, “have your druggist prepare a small quantity of shellac cut with wood alcohol, light colored shellac for light hats, brown shellac for brown or dark colors. For black hats you may add to the brown shellac and alcohol a small quantity of nigrosine. Shake well before using. Apply lightly and evenly with a small brush. It is well to lay the hat aside for a few hours to dry thoroughly, and to allow the odor of alcohol to evaporate. If the mixture is too thick, add a little more alcohol; if too thin, add a little more shellac.”

“A run for your money”
“I have used up two hours time and a good disposition selling a man his first Diamond tire. He didn't know the tire very well and wasn't quite sure of me. But there is no money in that kind of business—unless they come back for more.”

“There's the point. I can sell almost any make of tire once.”

“But what's the use?”

“I want to be your regular tire dealer now and for a long time to come.”

“I have the tires, I have the prices, I have the inclination, too.”

Every Diamond Tire must deliver full value in service. If ever a Diamond Tire fails, a cheerful, willing adjustment will be promptly made.

EDISON MAY INVENT ELECTRICAL DEVICE TO CATCH U-BOATS

Can Thomas A. Edison curb the submarine menace? All military authorities now agree that the submarine has placed the entire world, and therefore the United States, in the most terrible danger. If the submarine problem can be solved, then Germany will be defeated.

Neither England nor France has been able to meet this problem. Submarines are more dangerous today than ever before. They do not rise to the surface when they torpedo a vessel. Only one fact of the perilousness is above water. They are working

PICKLE SALESMAN LOST OUT, THEN CAME BACK

From the first day that Clarence stood behind the counter in the Corner Grocery he was popular.

He was a likable fellow—a good locker and a good talker as long as he did long distance salesmanship—while there was a customer between him and the customer, he made good.

But the traveling he was doing him and he accepted a road job for a Pickle factory.

He found it different going after business on the road than having customers call at the store.

He learned that he had to become better acquainted—get closer to the trade—and that's where he lost out.

He listened about a minute to Clarence's "good proposition" and walk away with the remark: "You're all right, Clarence—but nothing doing."

He couldn't get close enough to them. He was on the verge of distraction when one day he passed a store with the NIT-TEL, Clean Breath Sign, and he bought a package.

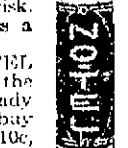

As if by magic things changed—Clarence always smoked cigarettes freely and that was the trouble—his breath would almost stop a clock.

But now the last thing Clarence does before he calls on a customer is to chew up three NIT-TEL Tablets.

It doesn't make any difference what your business may be—don't run any risk.

In society and business a clean breath is a big help.

Just look for the NO-THEL, Clean Breath Sign in the window of the Drug, Candy and Cigar Stores, and buy your package today—10c, that's all.

most terrible havoc, and may isolate Britain if not curbed.

Now it is estimated that Edison, who has been working from eight to ten hours a day, is perfecting an electrical device that he hopes will catch the submarine. If this device is successful the submarine will be entirely useless. It will register its whereabouts, and watchers on shore far away. That the invention will appear in the realm of possibility will appear entirely credible to a generation which has known the wireless and which knows Edison.

Until America's relations with Germany became strained, Edison refused to work on weapons of war. His aversion for inventing instruments of destruction was first evidenced in 1893 during some of the crises of the Venezuelan dispute when there was an epidemic of suggestions regarding the defense of America in case of war.

Some years before Edison had worked with W. Scott Sims on the perfection of a dirigible submarine torpedo boat operated by electricity, but when the government refused to co-operate and put all his energies toward the perfection of the electric light.

This torpedo boat was designed principally by Sims, but was made practical by Edison's electrical improvements. It was controlled by electricity and could have been developed into an efficient fighting machine.

SMASH MEAT PRICES GOVERNOR'S ORDER; CARP AS SUBSTITUTE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., May 4.—"Smash meat prices" was the order sent to the state conservation commission by Gov. Philipp on Thursday.

Wisconsin is resorting to driving tactics to increase the production of foodstuffs for use at home and abroad, and the governor has undertaken the big job of lowering the cost of living. This is part of the general program for by war conditions.

To make living easier for families of limited means, the chief executive outlined the following plan:

First—That the conservation commission shall let no more contracts for the shipment of Wisconsin carp to points outside the state.

Second—That carp shall be sealed from the rivers and lakes for sale in this state.

Third—That this work shall be carried on under the supervision of the conservation commission, and that carp shall be marketed at a price fixed by Madison officials.

Fourth—That the government shall engage in this business not to make money, but for the purpose of furnishing a substantial foodstuff at a figure within the reach of all.

Meat Prices Prohibitive.

This decision was reached on the ground that meat prices are prohibitive in some cases, and that if market values continue to go up, a meat substitute will have to be furnished in order to avert a desperate situation among the poor. The state is in a position to offer a solution, and Gov. Philipp intends to try out his plan.

The idea is to seize carp under the supervision of the conservation board and ship them in carloads to the city markets, or to any other markets where there is a demand. In Milwaukee, with its great population of working people, and up through the Fox river valley, which is dotted with a heavy industrial population, the sale of carp will meet a public demand, Gov. Philipp believes.

Representatives of the conservation board conferred with the governor on Thursday relative to the scheme to "smash meat prices." The commissioners say Gov. Philipp's plan is feasible, and they are anxious to give it a trial.

Shipped to New York.

Records here show that last year 1,381,168 pounds of carp were shipped out of the state, mostly to New York, where they were sold to the laboring classes. The average wholesale price was about 5 cents per pound. It is believed that carp can be retained in Wisconsin at not to exceed 5 cents per pound.

These fish are sold at an average weight from four to eight pounds; some of them weigh as high as forty pounds. One fish of the average weight would constitute a meal for the ordinary family.

Although carp are not commonly used on tables in Wisconsin homes, fish experts say they are very edible when properly prepared. They are supposed to be skinned, soaked in water and vinegar or in salt water, and then baked or fried, preferably baked. Smoked carp are said to be as good as any smoked fish on the market.

SAVING OF BABIES WAR TIME NECESSITY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., May 4.—Baby week is becoming impressed upon national child welfare workers as a wartime necessity. They are pointing out that if England and all other European countries had the opportunity that is this week before the United States, nearly every mother of Europe would be told how to feed and care for her baby that she might raise it to manhood, and neither time nor money would be spared in a baby-saving campaign to save all possible of the country's future citizens.

England is already keeping count of every baby born and is providing as best she may for its best health and growth. Other European countries that are heavily weighted down with war and all its horrors are also doing everything possible to raise all their babies. These nations realize that babies are the most important of all national assets, and that when the war is over it will not be territory nor national honor in which they are poorest, but strong, healthy men and women.

The United States has long been called an extravagant nation, a state health bulletin says. She is accused by other countries of being notoriously wasteful of baby lives. According to the census estimates, she loses 124 of every 1,000 babies, while England loses 85, France 78, Norway 65, and New Zealand 51. As a matter of fact, there are twelve countries having an infant death rate lower than that of this country.

But Uncle Sam is waking up. He realizes that his babies are worth saving if anybody's are, and believes that this wastefulness of baby lives is due to ignorance. He is now of the opinion that if parents knew better they would do better. Hence he has rear through the children's bureau, that this week be observed as Baby Week in every state in the Union in order that parents may know it is a matter of state pride that no state excels Wisconsin in Baby Week activity and in number of communities observing the occasion.

$450,000 INCREASE IN UNIVERSITY FUND FOR NEXT BIENNIIUM

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., May 4.—The joint finance committee of the legislature last night recommended an appropriation for the university for the next biennium, to close July 1, 1917, of $5,505,220. During the past biennium, to close July 1, 1917, the university will have spent $5,055,933. These are the figures announced by the joint finance committee.

The committee has recommended these sums after hearings running over the past three months devoted to hearings and investigations. The "operation" for the next two years, an expenditure to run the business, is higher than for the past biennium. There is a slight increase for maintenance and repairs and a decrease for capital. No new buildings are authorized by the committee.

1917-18 1913-14

Operation $1,866,916 $1,891,316

Maintenance 86,500 71,200

Capital 85,000 85,000

Sub totals $2,038,416 $2,038,416

Revolving fund 704,438 724,823

Totals $2,742,854 $2,763,239

Compared with these amounts, the university spent the following amounts during the past biennium:

1915-16 1916-17

Operation $1,676,446 $1,770,685

Maintenance 47,888 65,793

Revolving fund 681,579 650,889

Totals $2,510,148 $2,574,160

The university budget recommendations for 1917-18 are $96,231 greater than the amount the university is expending during the current fiscal year of 1916-17. This $96,231 is made up as follows:

Amount for coal $45,750

Medical school 13,000

Medical extension 5,000

Pharmaceutical extension 2,500

The balance is appropriated between the different schools and colleges. For the second year of the biennium an additional $15,000 is allotted for operation expenses.

RUSSIAN CROWN LANDS LARGER THAN GERMANY

Petrograd, May 4.—The crown lands in Siberia, which the new provincial government has confiscated from the imperial family and turned over to the state, include almost the whole of the provinces of Altai and Nerchinsk, embracing a territory larger than Germany and probably richer than Germany in its natural resources.

Since the eighteenth century these lands have been the personal property of the Russian emperors, who, being occupied with other matters, have paid little attention to their development. Both
